Scoring Probabilistic Forecasts: The Importance of Being Proper

J. Broecker (1), L. A. Smith (1)

(1) Centre for the Analysis of Time Series, London School of Economics, United Kingdom, (cats@lse.ac.uk)

Questions remain regarding how the skill of operational probabilistic forecasts is most usefully evaluated or compared, even though probability forecasts have been a longstanding aim in meteorological forecasting. The importance of employing proper