Danish children's uses of online opportunities are characterized by "more of everything" compared to the European average: early access, high frequency of use, long time spent online, access through many platforms. This picture of extensive use is followed by a relatively high percentage of children who encounter one or more of the risks that are defined in the EU Kids survey. This is the typical pattern: more use results in more exposure to potential risk. Only some of the children who meet risks feel somewhat or very bothered and the figures at the national level are so small that it is difficult to say anything when we divide the findings by e.g. age and gender and according to various risk areas, experiences

Young Danes are among the top countries when it comes to having profiles on one or more social networking sites, also on those they are actually too young to use (e.g. Facebook). That means many young children have profiles with the consent of their parents. As such this is not a problem but crossed with the fact that Danish children
